

Classification is computational only: transcription, processing, aminoacylation and stop-codon suppression of the candidates require experimental validation.